

Graduate Pathways to Success Workshop: Professional and Business Effectiveness

Thursday, September 25th, 2014, 9:00 AM – 12:30 PM
Graduate Student Centre, 6371 Crescent Road

This 3.5 hour workshop, hosted in partnership with the Postdoctoral Fellows Office (PDFO) will help graduate students and postdoctoral fellows to:

- improve their communication and business effectiveness and get better results
- utilize professional business etiquette principles more effectively
- manage meetings more successfully

This program will be highly experiential and will give participants opportunity to practice having purposeful, professional conversations, incorporate professional business etiquette principles into their toolbox and practice how to manage meetings more successfully.

Attendees will:

- be more confident expressing a professional conversational signature, including being assertive, while managing power differentials with less stress and more success;
- experience better results and have more impact as they incorporate their conversational signatures into day-to-day conversations and committee meetings as they interact with supervisors, colleagues and the business community;
- be aware of the impacts of not following generally accepted professional business etiquette principles and also the benefit of following professional business etiquette principles; and,
- have more confidence and will experience much better results as they lead, facilitate and manage meetings.

Facilitator: Dene Rossouw is the Principal and Motivational Coach at Possibil.com, helping leaders build their influence and inspire innovation at work.
